DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's changes to the claims have overcome the previous rejections under 35 USC 102 and 103.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5, 7, 9, 10 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yaeger et al ('931). The reference discloses a restraining apparatus for coupling at least two users comprising a spine 18 and at least two lateral extensions 24 adapted to couple respective users, wherein the spine includes stiffening members (the projections on spine 18 in Figure 2) which would inherently make the spine more rigid in a vertical plane than in the lateral plane.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yaeger et al in view of Nero. The primary reference discloses the invention substantially as claimed; see the above rejection in paragraph 3. However, it does not disclose incorporating light emitting material in its product. Nero discloses the use of luminous material on tether apparatus in order to enable the users to be seen in the dark; see column 4, lines 21-26. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to apply luminous material to the apparatus of the primary reference in view of the teaching in the secondary reference in order to safely use the product in the dark.

5. Claims 8, 11, 12, 13, 15, 16 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yaeger et al in view of Nero and Nadeau 3,563,208. The primary reference discloses the invention substantially as claimed, namely a restraining apparatus for coupling at least two users comprising a spine 18 and at least two lateral extensions 24 adapted to couple respective users, wherein the spine includes stiffening members (the projections on spine 18 in Figure 2) which would inherently make the spine more rigid in a vertical plane than in the lateral plane. However, the primary reference does not teach the use of releasable restraints, pivotable extensions or harnesses. The secondary references teach the use of releasable pivotable extensions and harnesses; see the Figures. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use harnesses, releasable attachment means and pivotable attachment means in the product of the primary reference in view of the teachings in the secondary references in order to securing control the child being restrained and to allow the child a degree of movement while still being tethered. Concerning claim 13, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide extensions on both sides of the spine in the product of the primary reference since a shift in the location of parts is within the general skill of a worker in the art.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
